→ HYPERBARIC OXYGEN THERAPY (HBOT)

HBOT involves breathing pure oxygen in a pressurized chamber to increase oxygen levels in the blood. This elevated oxygen supply enhances tissue repair and regeneration, reduces inflammation and swelling, and assists in the healing of chronic wounds and infections. Additionally, HBOT is effective in treating decompression sickness and carbon monoxide poisoning, making it a versatile treatment for various medical conditions. Recommended: 20-60 hours then maintain with 1 hour per month (dependent on patient and target treatment). Best results at least once weekly. Recommended 1 per week for 40 weeks, 5 per week (daily) for 8 weeks, or 4 per day for 2 weeks.

→ PLATELET RICH PLASMA (PRP) AND MICRONEEDLING

MICRONEEDLING, or collagen induction therapy, involves using fine needles to create tiny punctures in the skin, stimulating collagen production. Benefits include improved skin texture, reduced scars, minimized fine lines, and enhanced skin elasticity.

PRP THERAPY involves using a concentrated sample of platelets derived from a person's own blood. This plasma, rich in growth factors, is injected into areas of the body to stimulate healing and tissue regeneration. In the context of longevity medicine, PRP is used to promote cellular repair, improve skin elasticity, and potentially slow the aging process by enhancing the body's natural repair mechanisms. Its regenerative properties help maintain youthful appearance and support overall vitality.
